Gunther Holbl : Agyptisches Kulturgut Im Phonikischen Und Punischen Sardinien (2 Vols.): I. Textteil. II. Anmerkungen, Indizes Und 188 Tafeln (Etudes Preliminaires ... Orientales Dans L'Empire) (German Edition)
before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Agyptisches Kulturgut Im Phonikischen Und Punischen Sardinien (2 Vols.): I. Textteil. II. Anmerkungen, Indizes Und 188 Tafeln (Etudes Preliminaires ... Orientales Dans L'Empire) (German Edition):

From the early part of the first century BC, Egyptian cultural artefacts spread to an increasing degree into Palestine and Syria and (via the Greeks and Phoenicians) into the Greek, Italian and Western Phoenician spheres. Following a presentation of the Near Eastern background and a survey of Sardinian findspots, this work lists the types of monument found on Sardinia (from the 8th c. to the Roman period). In the case of both amulets (gods in human and animal form) and scarabs made of steatite and fayence an attempt is made, using a carefully developed typology (both of material and form) and other statistical criteria, to derive a characterisation of groups of differing origin (Egyptian, Eastern Phoenician, Punic). These objects reflect the expansion and adaptation of popular Egyptian magic. Even the Egyptian motifs on hard-stone Punic scarabs and precious-metal artefacts have a religious significance, which is very closely related to Egyptian concepts. In the same way the Egyptian elements on Punic steles and portions of architecture underline their sacral character. This study pursues methodological goals using evidence from the whole of Mediterranean area.

"His erudition, his methodological tackling and critical analyses invariably stand proof for front-rank research." Eric Gubel, "Bibliotheca Orientalis," 1988. "It is Holbl's great merit to have collected all of this material...and to have organized it in a highly systematic fashion, with thorough discussion of all conceivable aspects of the artistic and cultural implications of the material."
