First published in 1912. Ahad Ha-'Am's essays respond to a variety of issues on Jewish cultural revival, history and religion. Translated into many languages, his collected essays were first published in 1904 in three volumes as 'Al

Parashat Derachim' ('At the Crossroads'). Among his most important essays are 'The Spiritual Revival,' 'Priest and Prophet' and 'Moses.'

About the Author Ahad Ha-'Am ('One of the People') was the pen name of Ahser Zvi (Hirsch) Ginzberg (b. 1856, Ukraine; d. 1927, Tel Aviv), known as 'the father of cultural Zionism,' in contrast to Theodor Herzl's 'political Zionism.'
