Marcus Milwright : An Introduction to Islamic Archaeology (The New Edinburgh Islamic Surveys) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised An Introduction to Islamic Archaeology (The New Edinburgh Islamic Surveys):

This introduction to the archaeology of the Islamic world traces the history of the discipline from its earliest manifestations through to the present and evaluates the contribution made by archaeology to the understanding of key aspects of Islamic culture. The author argues that it is essential for the results of archaeological research to be more fully integrated into the wider historical study of the Islamic world. His organisation of the book into broad themes allows a focus on issues that are relevant across different regions and periods, and the broad geographical scope reflects the main focus of archaeological work in the Islamic world to the present day.

'I have no hesitation in recommending this book to scholars and students at all levels, but particularly to those wishing for an affordable, concise and accessibly survey of Islamic archaeology and its development over time and space.' --
