If you have read other personal memoirs from Jewish Partisans ...By TheScorpio47If you have read other personal memoirs from Jewish Partisans in The Holocaust, but you don't have this one yet, it is a must-have, must-read! Henry Herzog provides an invaluable account of so many different experiences: being forced to move into a ghetto, being one of the last Survivors of that ghetto and escaping from it just in time, trying to survive on the run in Poland, Slovakia and Hungary, fighting with a Russian Partisan group...There is simply so much here to learn from.

Henry Herzog survived the liquidation of the Rzeszow ghetto in Poland and endured terrible hardships in forced labor camps. He documents the increasing severity of Nazi rule in Rzeszow and the complicity of the Jewish council (the Judenrat) and Jewish police in the round-ups for deportation to the Belzec concentration camp. One of these deportations took his parents to their deaths. His brothers were caught, tortured, and killed by the Gestapo. Herzog and his sister escaped to Hungary where although she found refuge she was betrayed, arrested, and finally put on a train to the concentration camps. Escaping by jumping off the train and fleeing into the Tatra Mountains, he joined a group of Russian partisans to fight the Nazis. 1995 paperback, Saga Publishers / Folio Private

"This detailed account of six tortured and torturous years, studded with dozens of vivid pen portraits of Poles, Nazis and partisans, is hard to put down."--Meir Ronnen, Jerusalem Post Magazine

From the Inside Flap "This book describes six years of Herzog's war life in Poland, Hungary and Slovakia--a life of despair, humiliation, and pain. Also of stamina, dedication, and bravery."--Jan Karski, late professor of history at Georgetown University and one of the first diplomats to inform Western allies about German concentration camps
