

[Ebook free] Women and Music: A History

Women and Music: A History

From Karin Pendle

*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

Download

Read Online

#1221993 in Books Karin Pendle 2001-04-22 2001-04-22Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.25 x 1.33 x 6.12l, 1.66 #File Name: 025321422X528 pagesWomen and Music A History | File size: 39.Mb

From Karin Pendle : Women and Music: A History before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Women and Music: A History:

0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Women in Music History ReviewBy F. FischerThis book was very informative for my course. A lot of great information about Renaissance and Chamber music.6 of 7 people found the following review helpful. great resource and overviewBy April SmithI have used this book in research for my thesis on women classical composers. This resource was valuable as a starting point and addresses the ideas of what it is like to be a woman in the music business and includes references to classical composers, conductors, performers, etc.

This updated, expanded, and reorganized edition of Women and Music features even more women composers, performers, and patrons, even more musical contexts, and an expanded view of women in music outside Europe and North America. A popular university textbook, Women and Music is enlightening for scholars, a good source of programming ideas for performers, and a pleasure for other music lovers.

"... a thorough, insightful study of the rich musical heritage created by women." N. American Music Teacher

About the Author
Contributors
Adrienne Fried Block is a musicologist who has long specialized in music by American women. She is author of Amy Beach, Passionate Victorian: The Life and Work of an American Composer.
Michael J. Budds is a musicologist on the faculty of the University of Missouri, Columbia. He is author of Jazz in the Sixties: The Expansion of Musical Resources and Techniques.
Marcia Citron, Professor of Musicology at Rice University, is author of the award-winning volume Gender and the Musical Canon and two other books on women in music, Letters of Fanny Hensel to Felix Mendelssohn and Cecile Chaminade: A Bio-bibliography. She also works on operas on film and has written Opera on the Screen.
J. Michele Edwards, conductor and musicologist, is Professor of Music and also teaches in the Women's and Gender Studies Program at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minnesota. Recent projects include a recording of Marta Ptaszynska's Holocaust Memorial Cantata, essays about Julia Perry and Frederique Petrides, articles for the Revised New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians, and presentations about Japanese women composers. She is currently preparing a book about Ruth Crawford Seeger's String Quartet (1931).
S. Kay Hoke chairs the Division of Fine Arts at Brevard College in the mountains of North Carolina. Currently she serves as a national workshop leader for Music! World! Opera!, a program sponsored by Opera America, and is writing a book on Douglas Moore's opera The Ballad of Baby Doe.
Barbara Garvey Jackson is a professional violinist and Professor Emerita of Music at the University of Arkansas. She is founder and publisher of Clar-Nan Editions, a firm specializing in music by women of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.
The late L. JaFran Jones, an ethnomusicologist, was head of the music department at the University of Toledo, Ohio.
Leslie Lassetter has published articles on Phi Excerpt.

Reprinted by permission. All rights reserved.

Torn between expectations of a traditional woman's role and her musical ambitions, [Carrie] Jacobs-Bond decided in 1893 to bring some money into the household through her music. She arranged with a Chicago publisher to issue two of her songs, launching her career as a composer. Most of her 200 works are songs she published herself, painting the decorative title pages and promoting them by her own performances. 'A Perfect Day' (1910), her biggest hit, sold eight million copies and five million records and appeared in sixty editions. Jacobs-Bond said that her aim was to write "the simple songs for the people rather than intricate and curious pieces which only the critics extol for their eccentricities." Although originally intended for the recital stage, her music became part of the popular culture.